Shave & Buzz

Shave & Buzz is an annual fundraising event hosted by the Shave & Buzz Club at Duke. New this year is the collaboration with the PIKE fraternity at the University of North Carolina. This “cooperative and friendly competition” will spark greater awareness of and funds for adolescent and young adult (AYA) cancer patients at both the Duke and UNC medical centers.

The PIKE fraternity at Duke originated the first Shave & Buzz in 2016 to support two of their fellow members, Mark Schreiber and Bobby Menges, who were diagnosed with cancer within a month of one another. 100% of the funds raised at Shave & Buzz have supported programs and services for AYA cancer patients and survivors at the Duke University Medical Center, specifically fertility preservation and peer-to-peer support.

Participation at Shave & Buzz increases every year. In 2022, the event raised over $165,000, included over 150 fundraising participants, incorporated many supporting fundraising events from Durham to California, and raised money from over 1,500 unique donors.

The I'm Not Done Yet Foundation is a 501c3 non-profit founded in memory of Bobby Menges who died of cancer in 2017 at the age of 19. Bobby lived every day exemplifying the ideal of “never being done.”

I'm Not Done Yet supports AYA cancer patients and survivors who are facing cancer at a particularly vulnerable life stage. Bobby noticed significant voids in services and support for the AYA patient population during his final battle with cancer and became an active instigator for change.

I'm Not Done Yet is determined to continue his legacy by addressing those voids and continuing his work, including: peer-to-peer support programs, fertility preservation services, outdoor adventure experience, dedicated AYA treatment spaces, AYA cancer research, and by driving AYA cancer advocacy and education.

Since its inception, I'm Not Done Yet has donated over $1,500,000 to support AYA cancer initiatives across the country through its partnerships with the Duke Cancer Institute, NYU Langone – Long Island Cancer Center for Kids, Case Comprehensive Cancer Center, First Descents, Elephants & Tea, Stupid Cancer, Triage Cancer, and more.
